

William T. Luckey Jr. has been the eighth president of Lindsey Wilson College since July 1, 1998. He has served Lindsey Wilson since 1983, holding the positions as Vice President for Enrollment Management, Vice President for Development and Vice President for Administration and Finance.

As president of one of Kentucky's fastest-growing and most diverse independent liberal arts colleges, President Luckey leads a faculty and staff of more than 350 and a student body of more than 2,600. The college's annual budget is more than $54 million.

The focus of President Luckey's administration is to continue Lindsey Wilson's development as a liberal arts, church-related college that is distinguished for being one of the best undergraduate teaching colleges in the nation.

A native of Louisville, Ky., President Luckey holds a bachelor's degree in biology from Wabash (Ind.) College; a master's degree in business administration from Vanderbilt University's Owen Graduate School of Management; and a doctorate in higher education administration from Vanderbilt's prestigious Peabody College. He has been published and lectured widely on the subject of the "scholarship of teaching."

President Luckey is married to the former Elise Hendrickson of Oldham County, Ky. They have three daughters: Joanne, Chelsea and Kaitie.
